Straight Talking Americans

Statement by Secretary of U. S. Navy Relieves Depression in Britain

By HELEN KIRKPATRICK

LONDON, July 5.—(CND)—The straight-forward article by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox (just published in an American fortnightly magazine) calling on Americans "to make the British understand that they can count on our aid to the limit," is reprinted in full by the London News-Chronicle as an "example of the straight talking which Americans are now getting from one of the most realistic and outspoken members of President Roosevelt's cabinet."

Russia, he will call of Europe and added:

"When he shall clasp the bloody hand of the ally, Japan, they will lower above the western world and dominate the whole East, China, India, the Near East, and Africa—Dahar."

"Then when their submarines, their raiders, their bombers shall be within 1,000 miles of Brazil and within three miles of Alaska, America will have at last sided, shivered, through German encirclement, the isolation which Russia, whether and others so eloquently seek."

"I challenge those pretenders to the throne of peace for America to tell America at what price they want peace."

WHEELER said "only English courage" or "a resolute peace course" can preserve Britain.

"Nothing but such a resolute peace course," Wheeler said, "is all it symbolizes so quickly as peace." Wheeler said, "A Europe at peace means that the Hitler empire will crack and crumble as the Roman and Napoleonic empires crumbled."

"We must solve our domestic problems. We must build stronger the alms of this republic. We must make democracy impracticable from within and without."

Tallest smokestacks in the world reputedly are two at Anaconda, Mont., 865 feet high.

Premier Pays Visit To City Air Schools

"I would like to tell you how proud we are to have you in Canada training with Canadians and other nations," the premier said.

"They live and the national life of our country is made much richer by your presence here."

At No. 10 elementary flying training school, his next call, he was met by Mr. H. B. Bear, chief supervisory officer and Maurice Burdette, chief instructor. Flying trainees and instructors were gathered, standing in front of a long line of Tiger Moth training planes. Mr. King conversed with many of them, asking questions about their equipment and their training.

Next aircraft built.

He next visited No. 10 aircraft repair depot, operated by Aircraft Repairs Limited, and was conducted over the huge plant by W. Leah Brown, general manager, and Jack Meyer, assistant manager.

Going over the plant from top to bottom, he saw more than 100 men and women employed by Leah Brown.

Chain of Blows Is Continued By British Planes

The night raid on Brest, the 26,000-ton German battleship Gneisenau and the 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen were bombed. The port of Lorient also was attacked.

At the same time coastal command bombers raided the coast of southern Norway, the air ministry said, setting fire to docks and shipping at Haugesund and to a factory and the airport at Kristiansund.

At Brest high explosive studded the repeatedly-attacked warship and large fires were started in buildings along the docks.

Describing this, the air ministry news service said the crews and high explosive sticks across the docks in many lines of half a dozen tons, marks neatly ruled on the docks.

Like a lighted chart.

One pilot said: "The docks looked like a lighted chart."

It was a heavy attack, concentrated not only on the actual harbor, but on the surrounding area, giving the main point as follows:

Syria: "Things a bit sticky. We have been hit and we hope to overcome. We are waiting for the day."

Western desert: "Things in the Western desert are satisfactory. The air force is making a remarkable advance."

Breathing spell.

Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell said a group of correspondents that he had responded that the German attack on Russia gives the British a breathing spell to consolidate.

In a remark which he did not amplify he told the newsmen: "The British are in a position to be successful in the Middle East."

What the German will do, if they succeed in overcoming the Russian, is hard to say.

Russia's strength lies in her vast space in which to operate in case things are wrong.

RUSSIAN UNITS NOTABLY HEAVY IN FIRE POWER

Soviet Machine Guns Strongly Armed With Machine Guns

Rifle Grenade Throwers, Automatic Rifles Also Part of Russ Equipment

This is one of a Canadian Press series on Soviet Army strategy and tactics by a Canadian who commanded the Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion of Canadian volunteers in the Spanish Republic Army—EDITOR.

Written for the Canadian Press by E. CECIL-SMITH

Armament and fire power of a Russian infantry battalion is enough to astound anyone whose ideas of infantry units are still based on 1914-18 models. Even the 1941 Canadian army does not begin to come up to it.

Idea in this report are based on two things. Personal knowledge of many of the actual infantry weapons in use in Russia, and a great mass of information I was able to pry loose from various Red Army officers over a two-year period.

Not all of these men would answer a direct question involving too many details, but when you are curious, have plenty of time, and a common ground of actual battle on which to meet for discussion, a great deal of information can be gained.

Often I used to sit around in the evening, smoking and yarning with Russian instructors who were sent to Spain to teach the Republican soldiers how to use the weapons and tactics of their government, the Soviet Union. Or in the quiet of the afternoon we would lie on the reverse slope of some hill and discuss recent action.

How would such a town have been attacked by the Red Army? Or, what were the different functions of the light and heavy machine guns in Russia? How many light machine guns were there to a Red Army company? Many such questions could be raised quite naturally by officers of the Canadian army. Or, what were the different functions of the light and heavy machine guns in Russia? How many light machine guns were there to a Red Army company? Many such questions could be raised quite naturally by officers of the Canadian army.

RUSSIAN EQUIPMENT

We often used to compare the fire power of our battalion in Spain to the 1914-18 Canadian unit, putting ourselves on the back that we would deliver as heavy a blast as the First Great War brigade, but when we heard of the normal equipment of the Red Army in 1937-38 we were astounded. Today it may be even higher than some of our units.

Take the lowest fire unit, comparable to a Canadian infantry section, or a squad as it would be called in most other armies. This has the fire power of one of our platoons in the Canadian army, and is commanded by a sergeant with a corporal as second in command. The command element takes over the squad.

To main fire power lies in various automatic weapons, of course. First among these is the light machine gun called a Dikoverova. We used both this gun and one named the Maxim, and can therefore make a comparison.

MAN IS NEVER THERE

The two guns are about on a par. The Bren gun barrel can be changed more readily, but this we found to be a delusion, for in quick-moving action, when the gun may only be fired a few bursts from any one position, the man with the spare barrel is never there when most needed. He is either dead, wounded, or so far to one side that the barrel has cooled off by the time he arrives again.

Of Dikoverova the Dikoverova has the simpler one. It also has a magazine holding 47 rounds of .56 in. calibre. The Russian magazine is disassembled, thus like a photograph record, not heavy and clumsy like the Lewis gun drum. It can be loaded direct from chargers and requires no loading tool, though we found a three-inch length of string helped protect your finger.

In weight, size and fire power the two are about the same. Perhaps the Russian gun has a more comfortable stock and grip, but this is a matter of opinion.

In the heat of action two dice

Bren gun carriers are taking a dunk in the briny from the British troops stationed in Iceland. The bare icy hills of the northern island are shown in the background.

Said Mistake To Believe Atlantic Battle Being Won

BRISTOL, England, July 4.—(CP)—Emanuel Shawell, Labour member of parliament, declared today "It is a mistake to think we are winning the battle of the Atlantic."

Calling for a speed-up in ship construction to replace losses, Mr. Shawell said in a speech here: "We cannot win the battle until every enemy submarine is exterminated and every aircraft is shot down."

He said there were reports the government planned to discontinue publication of shipping losses, and asserted such a move would be "a profound mistake."

"There are occasions when it is prudent to conceal the truth," he said, "but persistent concealment may serve to induce differences in complacency."

Mr. Shawell warned that "it will not longer be a question of engines in America than some people imagine."

"There are serious labor difficulties to be overcome," he declared, "and it is doubtful whether the peak of the American shipbuilding program can be reached before the middle of 1942. Much that is unpleasant can happen before then."

In-Law Trouble Inmate Will Face Trial On Murder Count

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, July 4.—Leonard Livingston, aged 32, an inmate at the provincial training school, Red Deer, will face a charge of murder at last sittings of the Supreme court here. On June 4, 1941, Livingston is alleged to have strangled a fellow inmate at the school, F. Milne, 35.

Livingston appeared for preliminary hearing before Magistrate T. G. Brown-Kirkman here Friday.

John Quinn, Red Deer, appearing for the attorney general and Livingston's counsel, represented by J. R. McNeill, Red Deer.

Mr. Quinn called Dr. D. L. McCullough, medical superintendent of the training school, Miss E. Holmes, matron, Miss C. Ellinger, Miss E. Allen and Mrs. Douglas, attendants. The evidence given was substantially the same as that given at an inquest which was held following the death of Milne.

FOUND STRANGLED

Milne, who had a habit of destroying his clothes, was kept in a room by himself. On the night of June 4, Livingston was placed in the same room, partly as punishment and partly in an effort to break him of wrongdoing.

A short time after Livingston called out and when an attendant entered the room he found Milne had been strangled. Medical aid was called, but no resuscitation possible was done to revive the man, but to no avail.

The inquest at which Dr. E. A. Brailhead, provincial coroner, presided, the jury found that Milne was killed by being strangled by Livingston. The staff of the training school was absolved of all blame.

U.S. TECHNICAL EXPERTS TO AID RUSSIANS

Soviet Will Not Ask For American Material

Moscow Will Offer To Pay Cash Until Credits In U. S. Are Exhausted

By EDGAR ANSEL MOWBRER
WASHINGTON, July 5.—(CDN)—A batch of American engineers, the first of a number, is on the point of leaving, or has already left, this country for Soviet Russia. These are technical experts, who can help in such matters as transportation, or, if necessary, in destruction. Others may follow.

It can be authoritatively said that it is about all the aid that this country will give the Soviets until it is clear whether or not the Russians are going to survive the German blitz. American authorities are determined not to repeat the experience of France, Yugoslavia, or Greece, when war material, promised or actually sent, either did not arrive in time or fell into German hands. It is time no important war material, will be shipped until it is demonstrated that the Russians are not going to be pushed to the first round.

The impression prevails today that the Soviets will ask for American material to be given them gratis under the lend-lease plan. In the first instance, the Russians will offer to pay cash and their $60,000,000 worth of assets in this country will be released to them for the purpose of purchasing war material and the assets are exhausted, the Soviets are more likely to receive voluntary credits than lend-lease goods.

OPINION DOUBTFUL
At the present time, it is doubtful whether the Russians will be able to hold on, or whether their stubbornness will be borne down by German superiority in equipment, manpower and cash. The latter factor is not reassuring. It is, however, admitted that the Russians have put up the strongest resistance to date.

A report is current here that the German time-table called for the occupation of Kiev and Smolensk at the end of the first week. This was certainly not the case. Russian circles here are feeling backed by events and manifested confidence. Soviet officials also feel encouraged by the rallying of most of the Russian army in this country, whatever their view of Belorussia, is the opinion.

All Russians against Hitler.
All American officials place great emphasis upon the success or failure of Hitler's undeclared attempt to overthrow the Stalin regime from within. If Hitler succeeds in pulling Russian allies and setting up some sort of Russian puppet government, then Stalin's chances of prolonging the struggle are rated low. If he fails, no quibbling can be found, then the Bolsheviks may fight all the way back to the Urals.

Conscription Of Money Is Asked In War
Conscription of the money system for an all-out war effort is still equally as important and necessary as the conscription of manpower, according to a decision reached by the caucus of the R.C.A.F. and will leave the city this week.

Rev. E. G. Hensell, M.P. for Macleod, prior to leaving for Ottawa to attend summer sessions of the special parliamentary committee on war expenditure, issued a statement on behalf of the committee.

He says in his letter that the Canadians are short of cigarettes and tobacco. It is very hard to buy them. So they will be glad to go home. If anyone wants to send any, all that is necessary is to send some to Edmonton Regiment, C.A.F., and the officers will do the rest.

Canadian Night-Fighter Pilots Arrive Overseas With Large Contingent

By ROSS MUNRO
SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 5.—(CP)—A group of cat-eyed Canadian fliers, who trained under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan and are slated for night fighter operations, reached Britain during last week with the largest contingent of Empire flying personnel ever sent to this war front.

gunners and observers poured into the Royal Air Force reception depot here from debarkation points within the last six days. Some had come to Canada for training from Australia and New Zealand.

The recruits are being assigned immediately to squadrons for training flights. Those who have shown themselves competent for night flights during their training tests now will be making nocturnal raids, although the airmen themselves do not know which of their units will be selected.

ADAPTED TO WORK
Some of the airmen arrived in troopships which carried the large body of Canadian army men who are now beginning overseas training, following their arrival earlier this week.

Twenty-five pilots for the American Eagle squadron of the Royal Air Force will go to the front.

The airmen will go to all types of squadrons and some of them are sure-fire candidates for night fighters, said a depot officer.

Every province of Canada was represented in this latest draft of squadrons and taking things easy before going into battle.

JASPER MAN ENTHUSIAST
Sgt. Pilot Pete Gibbs of Jasper, Alta., a guide and horse trader in peacetime, said he was keen for night fighting, but give up any kind of fighter, especially a Spitfire, in a squadron with Canadians and you won't see the last for vapors.

EDMONTONIAN ARRIVES
One of the latest arrivals, Sgt. Air Gunner R. H. Lefurgy, native of Summerside, P.E.I., who was living in Saskatoon, Sask., when he enlisted, said "the fellows have a lot of flying time to make up since this trip and they are sure to get up to doing it."

Three C.A.F. veterans, Sgt. Air Gunners Doug Smith of St. John's, Nfld., Don MacNeil of New Glasgow, N.S., and Clint Laidler of Regina, Sask., were on leave in the area where the depot is located.

Development Of Moral Issue Is Church's Task

Assurance that the United States stands with Canada and Britain "in the great moral issue of world affairs" was given Friday night by Rev. J. H. Franklin, D.D., president of Cress Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa., and president of the American Council on Education, at a public meeting held in First Baptist church.

Speaks Here
The speaker, who was the majority of Americans with Britain and Canada and the other nations that are known as the Allies. And most of the people of the United States are standing loyally behind President Roosevelt, in view of the crucial situation, and his efforts to better national conditions, said the distinguished Baptist minister.

Dr. Franklin made reference to the Edmonton speech Friday of Rev. H. Macdonald King, prime minister of Canada, and the Independence Day message of President Roosevelt.

TASK OF CHURCH
He said that Prime Minister King's speech contained opinions that he had heard expressed two years ago in Europe "by so-called neutral officials, regarding the seriousness of the Nazi efforts at world domination and the hegemony of Europe, at least."

Referring to President Roosevelt's speech, Dr. Franklin said "the president used rather plain language, language that we all can understand, and that is the language on the American attitude. Dr. Franklin said that the president has taken steps that are right, just, and fair, and that are in the best interests of the world."

British Scouts Take Active Part In Aiding War Victims

Frequent tributes have been paid by A.R.P. wardens of Nazi-ravaged British cities to the effectiveness of Boy Scout training, as repeatedly demonstrated by Scouts during air raids. One of these, King's Scout Jack Evans of Swansea, earned this written commendation: "My opinion of the sterling qualities of this young man cannot be expressed in words. He is one of Swansea's heroes, and a credit to the Scout movement. His courage is of the highest order. He is one of our bravest citizens."

For continuous air raid service at grave personal risk, Jack Evans was awarded the Scout Bronze Cross. The accompanying citation stated that he fought and single-handedly, manning an A.R.P. post, felled three falling bombs which wrenched off doors and blew out windows; rescued people from piles of debris; and bandaged the most severely wounded, improvising tourniquets for those who had lost limbs; then returned to find his own home completely demolished.

Frigate Birds Warned Sailors of Hurricanes

Long before weather bureaus and radios existed, sailors got their storm warnings by watching the Frigate bird. If the bird flew low, storms got ready for a blow; if the bird appeared over land, clear than at breeding time, a hurricane was in the offing. Britain's Gilbert and Ellice islands used the Frigate bird on the 1937 Coronation flag, above.

The building is sponsored by young people of the Moravian Church, and the site will also be used by C.G.I.T. and Boy Scouts of Canada.

Sauce Pan Makes Good Helmet For Jerry Air Raids

The lack of a "tin hat" did not keep eleven-year-old Boy Scout John Flinn indoors during Sheffield's most serious "blitz". He improvised one with a saucepan peddled with a flutter, and dashed off for the warden post to which he was attached.

He was one of the first on the scene following a nearby explosion, and dealt successfully with several incendiary bombs and a fractured gas main.

During a lull in the bombing Scout Flinn dashed home to reassure his parents of his safety, and arrived just in time to deal with a fire there. This put, he dashed back to his warden post.

EXPRESSION SYMPATHY

Forgetting their own troubles, the Boy Scouts of Channing, Chaska, wrote International Scout headquarters to express their sympathy for the Scouts of Finland and Poland.

LEADERS ENLIST

Loss of 700 leaders through enlistment in His Majesty's forces was recorded in the recently issued annual report of the Boy Scout Association for 1940. The effect of this loss upon membership was shown in a drop of 8.27 per cent to 97,241. This figure, however, was still in excess of the membership total of the pre-war year of 1938.

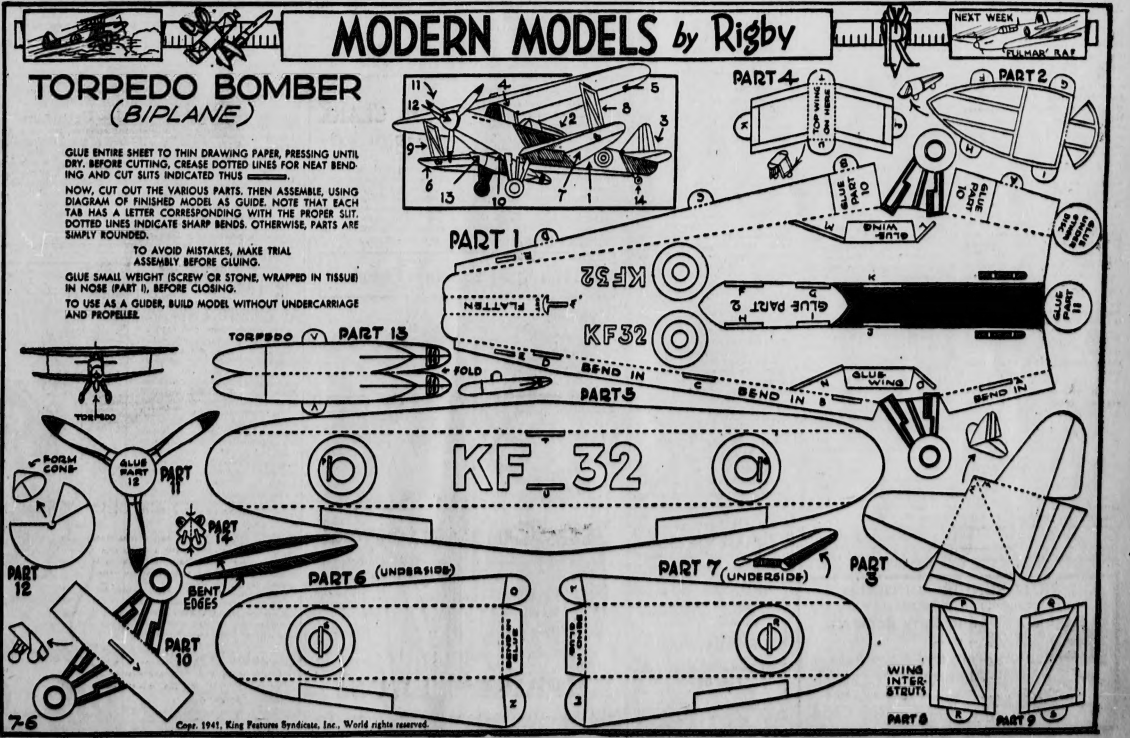

SCOUTS KILLED

A report by Patrol Leader P. Willis, of the 3rd Coventry West Boy Scout Group, "I regret to advise you that Second Douglas Hill and Scout Bernard Harbourn, aged 15, were killed while acting as fire watchers at St. Nicholas church, Bedford. They were two fine lads, who had been in the movement for seven and two years, respectively. The church received a direct hit, and everything, including the Scout and Guide flag, were lost."

June Proves To Be Busy Month For Dan Cupid

For Dan Cupid

The chubby little man with the bow and arrows, Dan Cupid, had a very busy time of it in June, and appears to have been the overworked

June has always been a busy month for him, but this year, his activities hit an all-time high. For the month 170 marriage licenses were issued in Edmonton alone, and an undetermined number of persons have found their minds lightly turning to thoughts of love. Persons who work in the thick of the love-business, such as society reporters, providing the "benefit of the press" dreammakers, clerks the marriage license bureau, florists etc., say there is no need for concern over the condition of Mr. Cupid, however. He's a hardy young fellow, and always remains in good form.

It is generally imagined that marriages are most numerous in June, but those in the know can wave statistics to show that they are equally, if not more, numerous during the fall and winter months. In June of last year, there were 13 marriage licenses issued.

TIE BREAKERS

In the next few days, all the contestants who are tied for prizes in the Game of Check will receive a letter from The Bulletin, in which there will be a set of tie breaking questions.

Enclosed with these questions will be a letter fully explaining what you are to do with these questions. The procedure is simple and we are arranging the mailing of these, so that each contestant will get his or her letter at approximately the same time.

We want to emphasize, that all the names listed on this page are definitely prize winners, and that the tie breakers are merely to establish what prize it will be.

The time allowed for the return of the tie breakers will be very brief, so that you will not be kept in suspense as to which prize you have won.

This is done in accordance with the rules of the contest, as they were originally published.

MOSCOW -- Soviet Metropolises In Shadow Of Swastika -- LENINGRAD

Canadian aircraftman looks down barrels of two-pound, anti-tank guns and Hitler's legions may get the same chance if they try invasion of England. Manufacture of these weapons is most recent undertaking of Canada's war industry.

March on Moscow—From north and west the battle-bitten forces of another Napoleon march on Moscow, Russian capital, one of the few cities of Europe where war is still but a memory. Panorama view shows the Moscow River and the mosques of the Kremlin in the background.

And Still The Battle Rages

The Associated Apparel Manufacturers of Los Angeles are defiant against what they term the wanton aggression of the Hays office. And so they have enlisted Muriel Morris, above, as proof that sweaters are wholesome articles of feminine dress and should not be banned by movie censors.

Withdrawing to stronger positions before the Nazi onslaught, Russian forces destroyed this bridge across a Soviet river. German motorized columns are pictured crossing an auxiliary bridge thrown across the river by Nazi troops.

Prime Minister Receives Unique Reply

A Friend

Dear Mr. King,

Yours and invitation to visit Canada prompts a reply from a private citizen of U.S.A.

Many of us in Wichita will surely visit your great country this coming season.

Our hearts are with your people and our English Canada in this hour of trial and we extend you our hand of fellowship.

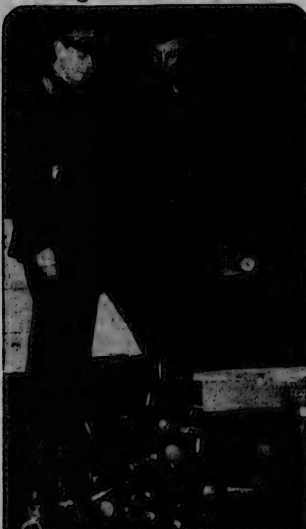

Sincerely,
406 So. 10th Ave. S.E. Edwards

Going Back—With Interest

Nazi fliers may have left some marks of destruction upon England but they've also left some mighty useful equipment, thanks to the Royal Airforce and anti-aircraft gun crews. Out of the hundreds of planes shot down large quantities of machine guns have been salvaged and repaired. And, in turn, they are put to good use by the British. Here the King is shown in a factory inspecting a pile of salvaged Nazi machine guns before they go into the repair shops.

A group of gunners from Moncton, N.B., pitch into their haversack rations as their artillery regiment halts at dawn after an all night move during recent 1st Division maneuvers.

British Bombers Score On Axis Convoy

A 5,000-ton Axis ship burns from bow to stern after being attacked by a British Blenheim bomber in the Mediterranean. The ship was one of a convoy spotted by a reconnaissance plane. A destroyer can be seen wheeling at the right. Other British aircraft engaging in the attack bombed a heavily laden ship of 8,000 tons which exploded so violently that all the attacking planes were badly shaken. Debris was thrown in all directions and a column of smoke rose 1,500 feet.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

PAN-AMERICANISM
IS BRINGING NORTH AND SOUTH AMERICA CLOSER TOGETHER, BUT THERE ARE SOME THINGS THAT PEOPLE ON OPPOSITE SIDES OF THE EQUATOR CAN'T SEE THE SAME.

SOUTH OF THE EQUATOR, THE MAN IN THE MOON APPEARS UPRISIDE DOWN.

THE SOUTH AMERICAN SOUTH OF THE EQUATOR CANNOT EVEN SEE THE MONTH STARS, THERE IS NO BRIGHT STAR NEAR THE CELESTIAL POLE OF THE SOUTH.

WHEN TEMPERATE SOUTH AMERICA IS HAVING WINTER, ITS SUMMER TIME IN TEMPERATE NORTH AMERICA.

TWISTERS NORTH OF THE EQUATOR SPIN COUNTER-CLOCKWISE...

SOUTH OF THE EQUATOR THEY SPIN CLOCKWISE.

POLAR LIGHTS SEEN IN NORTH AMERICA ARE THE AURORA BOREALIS. THOSE OBSERVED IN SOUTH AMERICA ARE KNOWN AS AURORA AUSTRALIS.

IF I WERE YOU I WOULDN'T EVEN TRY!

I WISH YOU WEREN'T GOING TO USE YOUR CAR TONIGHT, POP. I'D SURE LIKE TO BORROW IT!
TAKE IT!!

HOW DID YOU MANAGE TO GET THE CAR TONIGHT, FRECKLES? DID YOU HIGH-PRESSURE YOUR FATHER?
NOPE, HE JUST LET ME TAKE IT! I HAD ABSOLUTELY NOTHING TO DO WITH IT!
